

ARCHAEOLOGY OF EPIDEMICS

YELLOW FEVER IN NEW ORLEANS 1897

In 2016, archaeologists excavated a privy (outhouse) from the 1897 Yellow Fever hospital in New Orleans and recovered numerous artifacts. The photos below illustrate items used by patients and doctors.

Broken nursing flask

Nursing Flasks.

Graduated to hold 8 ounces, oval shape, straight with sloping sides. No corners, therefore easy to clean. Weight, 14 ounces.

No. 8F2144

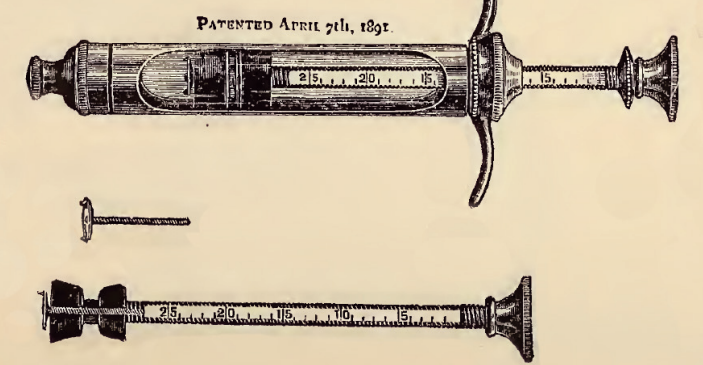

Price 4c

Unmailable.

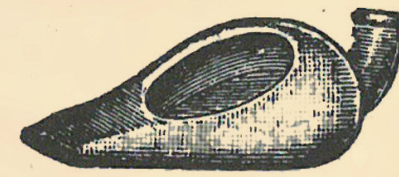

Syringe plunger

Hypodermic Syringes.

Reconstructed bedpan

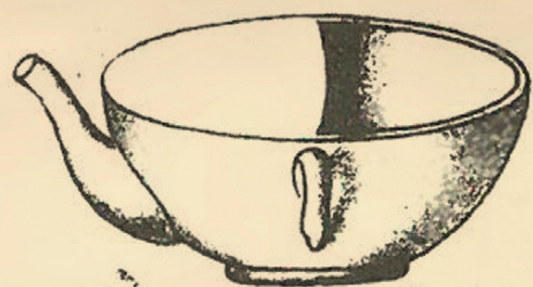

Bed Pans.

No. 2F596 Bed Pans, medium size, made of finest quality of stone china, finely finished. Weight 8 pounds Price, 85c

Reconstructed sick feeder

No. 9375 Sick Feeder, diameter 3, 3½, 4 or 4½ inches

Medicine Bottles

