2023 Everyday Hero Award Recipients

Rocksey's Young Leadership Award (Grades K-12)

Yuri Cobb, Grade 11, West Monroe High School

A junior at West Monroe High School, Yuri Cobb began volunteering with Ouachita Green when she was 10. Since then, she has become actively involved in beautification, litter abatement, and recycling efforts in Ouachita Parish. Yuri has spent the last two summers interning for KLB Community Affiliate, Ouachita Green. Yuri led the recycling section at parish-wide America Recycles Day events and Household Hazardous Waste Collection events for the last two years. She was also one of the artists involved in the Ouachita Green and Keep West Monroe Beautiful "Frame the Drain Project," painting a storm drain to remind passing traffic and pedestrians that "A clean Louisiana starts with us!" Yuri has also helped with planning and leading Love the Boot Week activities and events. Through her volunteerism over the years, Yuri has blossomed into a thriving young leader in her community.

Named for Keep Louisiana Beautiful's beloved mascot, Rocksey the Raccoon, this award is presented to a student or student group in grades K-12 exemplifying environmental stewardship. They are passionate about keeping their community clean and beautiful and they recognize it is every citizen's responsibility to protect the environment. Their leadership in and outside of the classroom encourages their peers to reduce waste, recycle, and pick up litter when they see it. Associated with this award is a cash prize.

Litter Enforcement Award

Sgt. John Hattaway; Louisiana Department of Wildlife and Fisheries

Sgt. John Hattaway is a 10-year veteran with the Louisiana Dept of Wildlife and Fisheries (LDWF) Enforcement and has proven year after year to be one of our premier agents in the world of litter enforcement. Over the last year, Sgt. Hattaway issued 45 citations for gross littering (dumping). This was the highest number of gross littering citations issued by any agent in the LDWF ranks for the past year. For this reason, he was given the LDWF Meritorious Service Award for Littering Apprehension. Sgt. Hattaway coordinates the camera effort in his district, which consists of the Ouachita, Jackson, Lincoln, and Union Parishes. He has been able to identify problem dumping areas and utilize the cameras to make a difference in his areas. With the aid of the cameras, he was able to make five separate gross littering cases in one day. As impressive as Sgt. Hattaway's littering cases are, they are only part of his exceptional case load. His case load is consistently in the top 10 statewide, and he is almost always the top producer in his region.

The Litter Enforcement Award recognizes law enforcement officers who actively work to stop littering in their community. They go above and beyond to educate the public about the negative impacts of litter, and they work to bring justice to those who break the law by littering or dumping illegally. Eligible for this award are police officers, LDWF agents, justices of the peace, constables, judges, and code enforcement officers.

Community Improvement Award

Clean Pelican

Clean Pelican organically formed in January 2021 after the explosion of litter in Louisiana. Glenda Pollard and Johanna Landreneau knew they wanted to make a sustainable difference, and that would require formally organizing a non for profit 501(c)3 which would allow them to apply for grants and legally accept donations for this monumental undertaking. Johanna took on the application and legal work, and they were up and going in March of 2021 with a strong board of directors made up of like-minded community leaders and professionals. To date, 40 community litter pickups have been organized, and an estimated 1,200 contractor bags of litter have been collected and hauled to commercial dumpsters.

The Community Improvement Award recognizes a project, program, campaign, or initiative in alignment with the mission and work of Keep Louisiana Beautiful. The effort should demonstrate innovation, collaboration, and measurable community improvement. Eligible are for-profit and non-profit organizations, Keep Louisiana Beautiful Affiliates, schools, and civic groups. Associated with this award is a cash prize.

Clean Biz Leadership Award (less than 50 employees)

LSU AgCenter Botanic Gardens

The LSU AgCenter Botanic Gardens is an expansive collection of specialty gardens, woodlands, wetlands, and arboreta. The 150 acres of urban woods is home to Trees and Trails, five miles of educational walking paths through the Burden Woods and wetlands. The mission of the Botanic Gardens is to promote the importance of plants and their environment to the physical, mental, and spiritual well-being of the citizens of Louisiana and beyond.

Through the past 10 years as Resident Director, Dr. Jeff Keuhny has taken this facility to new levels of research, community outreach, education, funding, and environmental well-being. One of his many impacts has been spearheading the clean-up efforts in the wetlands of Burden where 50+ years of refuse buildup had occurred in barrow pits adjacent to Ward Creek, the primary drainage channel for all of Baton Rouge watersheds. He has worked with the Louisiana Stormwater Coalition, Mississippi River Cities and Towns Initiative, City of Baton Rouge, LDEQ, and the LDCRT to obtain funding through an EPA Trash Free Waters grant to employ the expertise of OSPREY Initiative, an environmentally passionate company. OSPREY, with the assistance of many volunteers, has performed the cleanup and recycling of the refuse along with ongoing monitoring and research for long-term litter abatement solutions. This is part of a city/parish and statewide stormwater and litter abatement effort that has brought exposure to the issues of trash and non-point pollution that have become detrimental to the waterways of East Baton Rouge and Louisiana.

The Clean Biz Leadership Award is granted to an organization that has demonstrated dedication to Keep Louisiana Beautiful's mission and has adopted operational practices to support a cleaner, greener community. The organization may have implemented policies and procedures for recycling, waste reduction, and litter prevention. The business may also support community improvement through sponsorship, volunteerism, programming, and other relevant initiatives. ExxonMobil participated in Love the Boot Week for the past two years, participating in litter cleanups and planting efforts. Employees also hosted collection booths for electronic recycling and paper shredding.

In efforts to reduce plastic waste, ExxonMobil has created workplace initiatives such as "Bring Your Own Cup and Your Own Utensils," as well as wash areas for reusable supplies. Throughout the company's complex, there are recycle bins placed in common areas to encourage recycling. Further practices include site collection of types 2, 4, and 5 plastic caps to be utilized as internal feedstock for ExxonMobil's Baytown Facility Advanced Recycling efforts, which converts hard-to-recycle plastic waste into raw materials to create circular plastic products. ExxonMobil also has worked to implement collaborative, innovative solutions to combat illegal dumping.

Outstanding Community Affiliate Award

Keep Tangipahoa Beautiful

Keep Tangipahoa Beautiful (KTB) has made significant strides in creating a cleaner, brighter Tangipahoa Parish. This group, which began with just five grabbers and a few reflective vests seven years ago, has grown to a board of directors representing every part of this 50-mile-long parish and a host of volunteers who in the last year picked up 17,794 bags of trash and 333 tires.

With the KTB board, Tangipahoa Parish operates a three-pronged litter attack (via education, beautification, and enforcement) five days a week, 52 weeks a year, plus many weekends. Over the last year, the parish also identified 175 illegal dump sites and made efforts not only to clean those sites up but also to identify the culprits involved and take action to prevent future dumping by those individuals.

Collaboration is a key value in KTB's work. They work with partners in their community such as Osprey Initiative to support recycling during Love the Boot Week, and Southeastern Louisiana University to expand the reach of their educational programming. Their collaborative spirit and innovative efforts serve to promote a culture of cleanliness throughout their community.

Over the past year, Keep UL Lafayette Beautiful (KULB) has worked diligently to facilitate and participate in campus and community litter collections, native tree and plant planting events, training and educational workshops, and campus service work. With assistance from University Affiliate and Community Beautification Grants through KLB, KULB was able to install three sets of landfill/recycling bins in campus building lobbies and increase the native tree and plant population on campus. Thus, increasing their management of waste streams on campus, decreasing opportunities for litter accumulation, and increasing the campus inventory of native plant/tree species. During the 2022-2023 year, KULB has engaged 107 volunteers and totaled 523 volunteer hours.

Collegiate Environmental Steward Award

Tulane Trash to Treasure

Tulane Trash to Treasure is determined to tackle the problem of waste during move-out with a nimble, sustainable social venture. The students lead an annual collection of gently used goods during spring campus move-out, store them over the summer, and sell them to the campus community during fall move-in.

The organization was founded in 2014 by Tulane undergraduate students Tracy Godbe, Anne Bevis, and Margot Habets as a social venture to divert waste, reduce consumption, and donate funds to local non-profits. Operating since 2014, except for the first year of the pandemic, the quantity of materials collected has increased annually. The 2023 collection diverted 5,120 cubic feet of dorm furnishings alone from the landfill. These figures do not include clothing, books, school supplies, Mardi Gras throws, bedding, toiletries, cleaning supplies, and food that were collected, sorted, and donated to local non-profits with the help of collaborators and volunteers.

The Collegiate Environmental Steward Award is presented to a college student or student group going above and beyond to make their campus community clean, sustainable, and beautiful. Perhaps most notable is Janet's grant work to obtain funding to support the recycling collection center at Beauregard Arc. This local recycling option has benefited the organization's mission to provide work opportunities for developmentally disabled adults — as well as the DeRidder community as a whole. The conveniently located center collects recyclables including cardboard, newspaper, aluminum, and tin cans.

Alice Foster Award

Sandra Slifer; Keep Abita Beautiful

Through her leadership at Keep Abita Beautiful (KAB) and her commitment to the vitality and well-being of her community, Sandra Slifer exemplifies the mission of KLB. Since joining the KAB Board in 2017, Sandra has dedicated much of her time to creating, monitoring, and carrying out the logistics of programs in Abita Springs to help bring awareness to the litter and recycling issue throughout St. Tammany Parish. She is actively involved in pursuing grant opportunities, planning, and logistics, all while showing up at every town event with her straw hat and pull cart collecting recycling and picking up litter. Sandra is a strong believer that hard work and collaboration can give everyone a sense of ownership and pride in our community. Whether she's organizing a town cleanup or searching for grant opportunities, she is a tireless advocate for her community and an asset to Abita Springs and the state.

Sandra's involvement with the KLB family began in 2008 when she volunteered to serve on an education committee with Keep Mandeville Beautiful. She was an intricate part of a dynamic group of women who created Puppets with Purpose, a traveling puppet show with recorded original music and voiceovers. The puppet masters traveled to schools throughout Mandeville giving live performances and teaching thousands of children the importance of not littering, recycling, and caring for their community. It took a lot of arm strength to hold up the puppets behind the curtain for 30 minutes at a time.

In 2020, Sandra was named Abita Springs Volunteer of the Year, and in 2021, she received the honor of Citizen of the year. That year, KAB was also recognized as KLB's Outstanding Affiliate. The Outstanding Community Affiliate Award is presented to a KLB Community Affiliate that has made significant strides in the past year in making their community a cleaner, greener place to live. The recipient organization demonstrates strength in leadership by engaging key stakeholders and volunteers in collaborative initiatives with a measurable impact. KAB also continuously meets the requirements for KLB's Circle of Excellence Award, recognizing active and engaged Community Affiliates.
