SUCCESSION OF NICOLAS GAUMY
(known as "La Riviere"),

Petition of the Procurator General
for the King.

Sr. Fleuriau, Procurator General, represents that Sr. Gaumy died at Natchez, whither he had gone to obtain a supply of lumber (for the Company of the Indies), having taken with him his two negroes; that decedent left surviving him two minor children, one of whom is being taken care of in this city.

Sr. Fleuriau further represents that decedent left "a house" in New Orleans, on which there is a balance due the Company of the Indies; that it is necessary to sell the slaves and real estate of said succession in order to pay its debts and to employ the surplus proceeds, if any, for the maintenance and education of said minors.

Wherefore petitioner prays for judgment ordering the election of a tutor to said minors, who shall concur in the sale of the property of the succession and in the case of the negro who remained in Natchez, petitioner prays that those persons who have profited by his services be ordered to pay therefor at the rate of 3 livres per day until said negro shall have been sent to the Administrator of Vacant Successions at New Orleans.

Mr. Rossard shows that Mr. De Noyan, on behalf of Monsieur de Bienville, was permitted to take possession of some slaves and cattle of Bordier estate, until it was learned whether the letters of exchange had been paid or not. The presumption is that De Bienville recovered his claim in France; but anyhow Mr. de Noyan rendered an account of what he took in hand.

De MERVILLEUX vs. GAULAZ

In re: maimed negro

Petition

Captain de Merveilleux, commander at Natchez, had to leave his post May 1st, in order to obtain medical treatment at New Orleans. He enjoined his substitute, Gaulas, to commit all discipline of unruly slaves to Mr. Cazeneuve and not to punish them himself: "not knowing him to be apt and fit in this matter". Contrary to this injunction, Gaulas ruined one of the most valuable negroes by so strangulating his wrists that mortification of both hands followed, with loss of three fingers on the right hand and two on the left. His hands were bound five hours while more than six hundred rawhide lashes were inflicted. Gaulas has been trying to evade restitution for the said negro by diverting his tobacco, and some of de Merveilleux's from the premises, therefore he asks for redress.

Petition: Counterclaims

Pierre Gaulaz, Swiss officer, alleges Mr. Merveilleux hired him, by verbal contract, to act second in command on his Natchez plantation; that he (Gaulaz) did his utmost to carry out his duties, further declaring he had instructions to punish slaves and that the negro Choucoura lost his fingers by putting them into boiling water after hurting his hands by struggling while bound. Petitioner Gaulaz alleges the witnesses were untruthful and the really injured party is himself, now crippled for life by his dislocated collarbone. DUPUY PLANCHARD vs.

BABAZ and PEPY.

Petition for Examination.

Attorney General Fleuriau moves to have Babaz and Pepy examined; they are already in prison. Said prisoners are accused by Dupuy Planchard of having embezzled a note of 638 livres, which note Planchard's wife gave by mistake, for a note of 6 livres, to Renaudau alias San Chagrin, soldier, who had been sent to collect for some meat by Babaz and Pepy. It is understood that Pepy knew of the mistaken amount of the note but cashed the said note regardless.
